Caution – Protect Your Confidential Information
Trenam welcomes your inquiries and comments. Please feel free to call, write or e-mail us at any time. However, please note that contacting Trenam by phone, e-mail or otherwise does not establish an attorney-client relationship between us or impose any obligation on Trenam. An attorney-client relationship is established only after we have cleared any conflicts of interest and have agreed to represent you, as confirmed by your receipt of an engagement letter from us. You should not provide any confidential information or documents to us prior to our advising you that we are in a position to represent you. Moreover, even if we already represent you in some matters, a conflict of interest or other reason could prevent us from representing you in a new or different matter. Therefore, you should not convey to us any confidential or sensitive information, even if you are already a client of our firm, unless the information relates specifically to a matter on which we already represent you.

Unless and until an attorney-client relationship is established between us, any electronic or other communication between us will not be privileged and may not be secure. We may use the information you provide to us through this website as necessary to respond to you, provide the information you seek and for our internal purposes. We do not share or sell your information unless specifically authorized to do so or compelled by valid court order or other process.
